2. Pre-Requisites

Previous knowledge of Financial and Tax Law I is recommended.

3. Justification in the curriculum, relation to other subjects and to the profession

Regional and Local Tax Law is one of the subjects necessary for the correct and complete legal training of the undergraduate student, which is why it is established as an optional subject in the fourth year of the Degree in Law, with a weight of 4.5 ECTS credits (112.5 hours). The justification lies in the fact that it is a compulsory subject when training professionals and experts with an eminently legal profile, with a technical and practical knowledge of Financial and Tax Law that affects the Tax Administration at local, regional and state level, with the ability to understand how it works and acquire the skills and abilities that allow the graduate to argue and develop a critical view of the legal system, as well as the necessary techniques for its practical application.

This is a subject that complements the challenge of other subjects in the subject, such as the compulsory subjects of Financial and Tax Law I and II.

Its study is essential for those students who wish to dedicate themselves to the practice of Law in legal practice (lawyers, notaries, judges, staff of the different Public Administrations), as its completion will enable the student to subsequently carry out activities related to the development, interpretation and application of state, regional and local legal-tax regulations. In this way, students complete the legal training of Law graduates from the University of Castilla-La Mancha.

According to art. 4 of the UCLM Student Evaluation Regulations, it must be provided to students who cannot regularly attend face-to-face training activities the passing of the subject, having the right (art. 12.2) to be globally graded, in 2 annual calls per subject, an ordinary and an extraordinary one (evaluating 100% of the competences).

Evaluation criteria for the final exam:

Continuous assessment:

On-site students will be assessed using the continuous assessment system. An "on-site student" is understood to be a student who completes all the practical exercises and progress tests planned during the course. Failure to complete any of these practical cases or progress tests entails the loss of the status of "on-site student", being evaluated according to the system established for those students who have not been able to follow the continuous assessment system, who must take a theoretical-practical test that covers the entire syllabus of the subject.

Both in the continuous assessment system and for those students who have not been able to follow it, the criteria to be followed by the teacher will be those detailed below:

- Mastery of the subject, both in its theoretical and practical aspects.
- Ability to synthesise and correct command of legal-financial language.
- Clarity in the writing and argumentation of practical cases.

Non-continuous evaluation:

Those students who have not followed or passed the continuous assessment will have to take a theoretical test that covers the complete syllabus of the subject, as well as solve one or more practical cases, which may consist of questions or case studies, being the criteria to be followed for passing the ordinary test:

- Mastery of the subject, both in its theoretical and practical aspects.
- Ability to synthesise and correct command of legal-financial language.
- Clarity in the writing and argumentation of the practical cases.
- Oratory and appropriate oral presentation in the debates generated by the practical cases.

Specifications for the resit/retake exam:

Those students who have not been able to pass the ordinary exam will have to take a theoretical test that covers the complete syllabus of the subject as well as solve one or more practical cases, which may consist of questions or case studies, on the same day as the final exam. The criteria to be followed by the teacher will be the same as those indicated for the assessment of the ordinary exam.
