T11	Solve problems, take decisions and learn how to adapt to changes and new situations
T13	Value and promote own work quality

5. Objectives or Learning OutcomesCourse learning outcomes*Description

Develop argumentative habits of formal and informal logic and know how to apply them both in the analysis of texts, of methodological positions in the human and social sciences, and in the analysis of ethical and political positions given throughout history and, especially, in our present. This can be contrasted especially by constructing argued philosophical dissertations.

Explain orally or through written reports the results of reading reviews, essays or short papers, in well-argued manner.

Promote the development of the capacity for rational and dialogical autonomy as a framework for the development of the construction of coexistence and truth

Acquire basic knowledges on communication and information technologies

Develop entrepreneurial spirit and self-confidence, involvement, critical sense, personal initiative and capacity to learn, to plan, to take decisions and to take responsibilities.

Gather information, especially of a bibliographic nature, and subject it to critical analysis in order to develop coherent and free of prejudice discourses.

Know main types and norms of formal and informal argument.

Open up to interdisciplinarity, pluralism and tolerance, within a framework of non-ethnocentric universalism.

Assessment of active participation	20.00%	0.00%	The active participation of the students in the classes will be taken into account.
Total:	100.00%	100.00%

According to art. 4 of the UCLM Student Evaluation Regulations, it must be provided to students who cannot regularly attend face-to-face training activities the passing of the subject, having the right (art. 12.2) to be globally graded, in 2 annual calls per subject, an ordinary and an extraordinary one (evaluating 100% of the competences).

Evaluation criteria for the final exam:

Continuous assessment:

For students who regularly attend class, the criteria indicated above. The theoretical work will be delivered at the same time that the final exam is delivered. You will not be able to pass the course if the exam or the directed work is suspended.

Any student may change to the non-continuous assessment mode as long as they have not participated during the teaching period in assessable activities that together account for at least 50% of the total assessment of the subject. If a student has reached that 50% of assessable activities or if, in any case, the class period has ended, it will be considered in continuous evaluation without the possibility of changing the evaluation modality.

Non-continuous evaluation:

For students who do not attend class regularly, the assessment criteria are exactly the same as those for continuous assessment.

Any student may change to the non-continuous assessment mode as long as they have not participated during the teaching period in assessable activities that together account for at least 50% of the total assessment of the subject. If a student has reached that 50% of assessable activities or if, in any case, the class period has ended, it will be considered in continuous evaluation without the possibility of changing the evaluation modality.

Specifications for the resit/retake exam:

They are the same as in the ordinary call.

CHANGE OF ASSESSMENT MODALITY: Any student may change to the non-continuous assessment mode as long as they have not participated during the period of classes in assessable activities that together account for at least 50% of the total assessment of the subject. If a student has reached that 50% of assessable activities or if, in any case, the class period has ended, it will be considered in continuous evaluation without the possibility of changing the evaluation modality.

Specifications for the second resit / retake exam:

They are the same as in the ordinary call.

CHANGE OF ASSESSMENT MODALITY: Any student may change to the non-continuous assessment mode as long as they have not participated during the period of classes in assessable activities that together account for at least 50% of the total assessment of the subject. If a student has reached that 50% of assessable activities or if, in any case, the class period has ended, it will be considered in continuous evaluation without the possibility of changing the evaluation modality.
