3. Justification in the curriculum, relation to other subjects and to the profession

Sustainability in cities and regions has become a central element when trying to solve larger issues like mitigating global climate, enabling regional adaptation, and the preservation of natural systems and ecological function. Environmental and social processes have a broad scale, they just do not happen in a neighborhood, but they will find its causes and consequences in the region or the country they are surrounded by, or even the whole world. Therefore, a sustainable planning is achieved from the local to the meso, and to the global scales. The need for a comprehensive and systemic view of the region both for its analysis and for planning and management initiatives, justify, however, the design and the multi-perspective approach of the course.

5. Objectives or Learning Outcomes

Course learning outcomes

Description

Students incorporate sustainability criteria into urban and territorial plans.

Students can carry out studies in territorial planning, coastal environment, coastal planning and defence and environmental aspects related to infrastructure.

Students know the usual figures and forms of planning in other geographical contexts: EU, USA, Latin America.

Students understand the keys to sustainable urban management, from the point of view of infrastructure (networks), but also water, energy, waste, transport, economy, etc.

Additional outcomes

More specifically, upon completion of the course students will:

1. Understand urban and regional plans, and the related environmental issues in Spain.
2. Become familiar with the specific shapes and forms of planning in other geographic settings: EU, US, Latin America;
3. Understand the keys to sustainable and ecological planning, and its management processes from the point of view of the infrastructure, water, energy, waste, transportation, economy, etc.
4. Examine the specific applications of different design paradigms on urban form, through domestic and international examples and case studies of urban projects.
5. Learn about the current situation of different planning issues: housing, public spaces, urban management, participatory planning, etc.

According to art. 4 of the UCLM Student Evaluation Regulations, it must be provided to students who cannot regularly attend face-to-face training activities the passing of the subject, having the right (art. 12.2) to be globally graded, in 2 annual calls per subject, an ordinary and an extraordinary one (evaluating 100% of the competences).

Evaluation criteria for the final exam:

Continuous assessment:

Unless stated otherwise, continuous evaluation criteria will be applied to all students. The weights of the table with a minimum score of 4 will be applied unless otherwise indicated.

Anyone choosing non-continuous assessment must notify it to the lecturer within the class period of the subject. The option is only available if the student's participation in evaluation activities (from the continuous assessment) has not reached 50% of the total evaluation for the subject.

For the retake exam, the assessment type used for the final exam will remain valid.

Non-continuous evaluation:

The work will have a minimum length of 200 pages
